Cannes AirShow opens doors for sixth year running and welcomes debut appearance from Cirrus SR22T Porsche.

Cannes AirShow, the only General Aviation Exhibition in France, will open its doors for the sixth year running this week on Thursday June 7th at Cannes International Airport. (LFMD).

With an expected 10,000 visitors one of the main highlights of this year's show will be the international debut and premiere of the Cirrus SR22T Porsche when it will be on display to the industry for the first time in Cannes. The new model will be on show alongside over 100 aircraft on the static display.

A wide selection of aircraft ranging from ultra-light machines through to business jets, and helicopters, from all the major European and international manufacturers will also be on show. This year's line-up includes Dassault Aviation - also taking the opportunity to exhibit for the first time - Cessna, Embraer Executive Jets, Piper Aircraft, Piaggio Aero, Daher-Socata, Hawker-Beechcraft, Diamond Aircraft, Pilatus, Tecnam, Robinson, and many more.

A full conference programme will run in parallel during the 3 days and covers various general aviation topics including regulation, future strategy, flight planning, security and many others.

A number of flight schools intend to unravel the mysteries of the aviation sector for visitors and will explain the variety of career prospects within the aviation community. The "Brevet d'initiation Aéronautique," BIA, a diploma awarded to students aiming to be a pilot, will be presented on Saturday morning to 300 students. The presentation confirms the importance of the show to on-going aviation education.

Cannes AirShow is also an important platform for those presenting products, services and equipment, from the aeronautics sector. Companies such as Bose, Lightspeed, Jeppesen and others recognise the benefit of having a relaxed environment in which to present their services and products. One of the singular factors of the Cannes Air Show, the "Brokerage Market Area" also provides the opportunity for aircraft and helicopters owners to market their machines. In previous years up to 70% of the pre-owned aircraft exhibited have been sold as the show provides a unique opportunity to meet potential private buyers.

"The visitors to Cannes AirShow represent the breadth of aviation and the exhibitors match this variety. There is no other general aviation exhibition in France or in the South of Europe that has as much for aviation professionals and enthusiasts. It provides the perfect networking opportunity for all those involved to find out more about the latest products, news and trends," said Didier Mary, the event organiser.

Strengthening its position in the General Aviation market Cannes AirShow has also formed significant partnerships with a number of industry organisations including that GIPAG (The French group representing professionals from the General Aviation industry), AOPA France (Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association) and FFA (The French Aeronautics Federation) which will all have a strong presence throughout the show.

After starting the day at four under and trailing overnight leader Ahmad Bateman of Canada by one shot Chung moved into cruise control over the last day with a back to back four under 68 for a two round 8 under par total of 136.

Ahmad was coming of a previous runner up position at the recent APCT Sri Lankan Airlines Masters and should breakthrough for his maiden APCT victory soon. Back in 3rd place only one shot behind was diminutive Indonesian Soewarno, whom despite his small stature is right up there in the scoring department with the big boys at the business end of his tournaments.

This event fielded over 64 pros from 15 countries at a venue which was truly most appreciated by all players, sponsors and the media alike. The event Once again, in keeping with the tour tradition US$2,500 was passed by the tour players to the local Hui

Yang Society Consolidated Welfare Centre orphanage. The Title Sponsor of the tournament CPM China also matched this amount which was passed this on to the societies representatives at the tournament prize giving. The Board of CPM China were very impressed by the golf course and standard of play and will look towards making this an annual tour stop in China.

Chung Chun Hsing Profile

"Age is not an issue when it comes to playing golf." Those words typify Chung Chun-hsing's attitude toward the game. Even after a professional career spanning over 30 years, Chung remains the most competitive of athletes, as competitive today as when he was young. Chung's precise irons are his best weapons in conquering golf courses. He has more holes-in-one as a pro (23) than any other Taiwanese player in history, and he became the first player to win consecutive Fubon Senior Opens in 2008 (tournament was called Taiwan Mobile Senior Open in 2007). He nearly 2 captured his third Fubon Senior Open last year but was edged out at the end by David Ishii to finish second With the debut of the European Senior Tour in Taiwan, the tournament will have a star-studded field chasing the top prize. But Chung, known for his rich experience and ability to withstand pressure, will be determined to fend off any opponent in his path to the title.

Controls joins Boeing's 'Dream Tour' at London Heathrow

Ultra Electronics, Controls, based in Greenford, UK, joined Boeing at London's Heathrow Airport today (23 April) for the latest stop of the 787 Dreamliner aircraft's worldwide 'Dream Tour.' The 787 is currently travelling the globe to allow Boeing's partners and customers to experience the revolutionary technology and passenger innovation on board the aircraft.

Controls is partnered with GKN Aerospace for the design, manufacture and delivery of the innovative Wing Ice Protection System on the 787, the first of its kind solution for wing de-icing. To save weight and to make the aircraft more fuel efficient, Boeing decided to incorporate a pioneering system that used electrically powered heater mats to provide ice protection of the wings. By teaming with GKN Aerospace, Ultra was able to work with Boeing to provide such a system.

World's Leading Handbag & Leather Restoration Concept Opens First Luxury Boutique in Dubai

Located at Palm Strip Mall, Jumeirah Beach Road, Dubai, the boutique marks the entry of the franchise into the Middle East

Dubai, United Arab, Emirates, May 19th, 2012: After observing tremendous success in the United States and other parts of the world, Lovin My Bags, the world's first system of handbag and leather restoration has entered the Middle East region with its first boutique launch in Dubai at the Palm Strip Mall on Jumeirah Beach Road. The new 500 sq. Feet boutique was inaugurated by Chief Guest 'Aiisha Ramadan', the leading Arab fashion designer and hosted by 'Shereen Mitwalli'; TV presenter, & international events moderator. Lovin My Bags is located on level one of the Palm Strip Mall and specializes in the very first system of handbag cleaning, restoration and leather care products developed to prolong the life and beauty of luxury designer hand bags and all other leather belongings with utmost professional care.

Despite the fact that designer handbags have been around for years, finding a professional service to refurbish them in this part of the world has been challenging. With the launch of Lovin My Bags, luxury buyers have the safest and quickest option to restore their belongings. In this part of the world due to such extreme climates, there is a big issue of dye transfer from Abayas, Jeans & other materials. Lovin My Bags has engineered products & services specifically to address such issues.

Jai Tolani, Partner & Director, Lovin My Bags Middle East, said: "Leather restoration for luxuries might be new to the Middle East region, but it is a much needed concept. Our approach and philosophy is to offer a very personalized service, as our 'Restoration Specialists' personally assist customers with their belongings. The design concept of our first boutique itself has a very inviting, elegant and luxurious feel that reflects the true essence of the brand. The boutique was carefully modelled after studying the customer experience of top luxury brands in the luxury sector today."

Lovin My Bags was founded in the United States by Barbara and Gary Crouthamel with 35 years in leather restoration and conservation experience. The exclusive handbag care products are created from natural and organic ingredients that are safe for the most delicate leathers, including unfinished leathers and exotics. The global hub in the United States is always innovating newer technologies and products to guarantee unmatched quality, speed and results.

Lovin My Bags targets both the male and the female market. Middle East consumers are heavy spenders on luxury. Bain & Company, the leading advisor to the global luxury goods industry predicted a potential for up to 12 per cent increase in luxury spending in 2012 in the Middle East region. Bain & Company confirmed that the Middle East remains a hugely lucrative market for luxury goods with growth in the region to remain robust in the coming years due to tourists' influx, domestic salary increases and store openings, notably in Abu Dhabi, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait

Jai Tolani adds: "This is a very exciting time for Lovin My Bags globally and for us in the Middle East. Lovin My Bags was founded in the US, but is quickly mushrooming across the globe. Retail boutiques have opened in recent months in other parts of the world such as Philippines & Malaysia with others in the pipeline. We look forward to opening more stores in the future across the Middle East and the neighbouring region."

Dhiraj Munjwani added: "Leather needs protection, cleansing, moisturizing, conditioning and miracle products to keep it looking its best. We treat handbag as 'Souls' that require constant rejuvenation, pampering & love. We specialize in cleaning and restorations services for all designer brands including Hermes, Chanel, Louis Vuitton, Prada, Balenciaga, Dior, Cartier, Chloe, Gucci, Jimmy Choo, amongst all others."
