Flying Colours Corp. completes trio of Bombardier Challenger 650 jets in medevac format

Peterborough,
Ontario/19
December 2018

Flying Colours Corp. the maintenance, refurbishment and completion specialist, has completed the industry's first trio of Bombardier Challenger 650 medevac interiors. Number three, under contract from Bombardier Specialized Aircraft, was completed in December and has already arrived at Swiss Air-Rescue Rega's base in Switzerland alongside the first two aircraft which were completed earlier this year. The third jet replicates the format of the first two cabins and is kitted out to meet the needs of demanding medevac operations.

Working in conjunction with Aerolite, the medical equipment specialists, and the Bombardier Specialized Aircraft team, Flying Colours designed, manufactured and installed the majority of the non-medical monuments, furnishings and interior components. When in full operation the cabin functions as a fully operative Intensive Care Unit for up to two patients with attending medical experts or can be easily configured to support transport of up to four patients. The spacious cabin can also accommodate specialized medical equipment as needed.

To improve the passenger, patient and clinician experience, the cabin design emulates a multi-purpose clinical environment. The calming grey and white interior is accented with red handles and fixings, and significant consideration was given to soundproofing. In the aft section a duo of galleys incorporates Enflite ovens, coffee makers and customized double-width fridges that provide extra space to store medical supplies. A lavatory is also located next to the baggage area with the overall layout ensuring easy egress and access for the patients and medical teams. With reduced noise levels and a practical layout, as well as the Challenger 650 aircraft's widest-in-class cabin and smooth ride, this air ambulance offers passengers, clinicians and patients a superior flight experience during what can be a stressful time.

The aircraft are instantly recognizable by those needing to identify them at airports around the globe. The Flying Colours dedicated paintwork team completed a striking exterior look featuring a solid red flash across the front portion of the fuselage and a red and white design element on the tail.

"We are extremely pleased with the successful completion of these three incredible aircraft. The intelligently designed interiors ensure crew and clinicians can effectively operate no matter how challenging the environment. Patients and passengers benefit from an extremely comfortable medical environment, which we recognize in some cases will be life-saving. We understand that the first two aircraft are already working hard and that this third and final Challenger 650 aircraft will be a welcome addition to the fleet," said Sean Gillespie, Executive VP Flying Colours. "It was an exciting project to work on as we completed each aircraft to the highest quality on time and on budget. The complexity and very specific requirements of these aircraft demonstrate the expertise within our special missions team and we look forward to working on similar projects in the near future."

PCMA Convening Leaders

Academy Award-winning actor Geena Davis will keynote the 2019 PCMA Convening Leaders, the premier annual event for the business events industry, on Jan. 9 at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

An advocate for women and expert on gender in the media, Davis joins a growing list of thought leaders and entertainers speaking at PCMA's annual conference, considered the Super Bowl of the business events industry. Also on the roster are tennis legend Billie Jean King, marketing guru Seth Godin, diversity expert Steve Pemberton and millennial entrepreneur Nadya Okamoto.

Thousands of business events professionals gather each January for education sessions and networking. "We are thrilled to count being the best. Following our first ever detailed market survey of 20,000 brands in Germany, FAI Aviation Group, now belongs to one of the country's best. Well done!"

Geena Davis among the powerful influencers joining us at Convening Leaders", said Sherrif Karamat, CAE, PCMA's President and CEO. "We sought her because she is a champion for social change, and that is paramount to PCMA."

The award comes as FAI continues to experience consistent growth and success. Last month, the company added its first Bombardier Challenger 850 to its 25-strong fleet. The aircraft which is available for immediate charter in 14-seat VIP configuration can also convert to a comfortable medevac transport. The additional aircraft serves to strengthen the company's position as one of Europe's largest Bombardier operators, which brings significant operational and cost benefits.

The company inaugurated its new 4,500 m² carbon neutral Hangar 8 last year, the largest general aviation hangar complex in Germany complementing its existing 2,000 m² Hangar 6 and 3,000 m² Hangar 7.

The company also continues to grow its dedicated maintenance division, FAI Technik, at its Nuremberg, Germany base, which specialises in Bombardier Business Jets MRO. The division recently completed its fifth full Global Express aircraft cabin refurbishment.

Following record financial results in 2017, the division anticipates record financial results for this year with revenues of around € 12 m compared with € 9.7 m in 2017.

FAI is one of the world's leading air ambulance jet operators, logging more than 10,000 hours per year flying air ambulance missions - which represents a distance of more than 100 times around the Globe.

The Focus Money Awards are based on the results of a German research study conducted by Focus Money and Deutschland Test supported by the Institut für Management und Wirtschaftsforschung (IMWF) and the International School of Management (ISM). Varicoceles can be found in 15 percent of the adult male population

Abu Dhabi, UAE, 19 December 2018: Infertility has traditionally been linked as a woman's issue. However, failure to conceive can also be due to fertility issues in male partners. Studies suggest that a male related factors accounts for approximately 40 percent of all infertility cases. While there are several reasons that can affect a man's fertility, varicocele is also a very common condition today.

Varicocele is an unusual enlargement of the veins that drain the deoxygenated blood from the testes. It is more common in the left side but also possibly found on both sides of the scrotum, and very rarely only on the right side. Similar to varicose veins, which occur in the legs, a varicocele causes blood to pool in the area leading to swelling, testicular shrinking, infertility and sometimes pain.

A varicocele is a common condition that affects a man's fertility. The condition can not only lower the sperm count, but may cause low testosterone levels in the testicles, which could lead to lower fertility. While such patients experience discomfort and pain, surgical remedies like varicocelectomy might relieve them of the symptoms but not necessary cure infertility. Even after surgery, such patients are unable to conceive naturally and hence must see an infertility specialized centre like IVI Fertility to realize their dream of fatherhood.

At IVI, we often recommend patients to undergo a thorough examination to identify this condition, As well as suggest treatments to solve the fertility problem when the number and/or quality of the sperms are impaired. If the male factor is severe, we can provide treatments to obtain the sperms directly from the testicle, such as FNA, PESA, TESE, MICRO-TESE, followed by ICSI/IVF to help combat infertility due to varicocele," said Dr Laura Melado, IVF Specialist, IVI Middle East Fertility Clinic, Abu Dhabi.

Varicocele can be found in 15 percent of the adult male population and is more common in males who are overweight. It has been noted that in couples who have successfully had a child, but are having a difficult time conceiving a second time, the varicocele infertility rate has been found to be as high as 81 percent.

"While there is no accurate reason as to what causes varicocele, it is certainly not a genetic condition. The condition often begins at adolescence and can happen as a result of trauma. Most men aren't aware of a varicocele until they experience fertility problems. However, if they experience a feeling of heaviness in the testicle, especially after exercise or a swelling or mass in the scrotum, or one testicle noticeably smaller than the other, it is suggested that they consult a medical expert to treat the condition in time to avoid infertility problems," added Dr. Laura Melado.

With an excellent team of over 1,000 doctors IVI delivers a success rate of over 70 percent, the highest in the region. IVI Fertility has three clinics in the Middle East – Abu Dhabi, Dubai and Muscat, which strive to offer patients fertility treatments that are honest, transparent and customised to their medical conditions coupled with the best clinical practices.

Poland gears up for FIFA U-20 World Cup 2019

Coinciding with the Polish Football Association's 100th anniversary in 2019, the country is gearing up to host its first-ever FIFA tournament, the FIFA U-20 World Cup, to be played from 23 May to 15 June 2019. With less than six months to go before the big kick-off, FIFA and the Local Organising Committee (LOC) have now unveiled the competition's Official Emblem and match schedule.

The FIFA U-20 World Cup has long been a breeding ground for some of world football's most gifted players, with the likes of Diego Maradona, Lionel Messi, Robert Prosinečki, Zvonimir Boban, Adriano and Paul Pogba having blossomed at the tournament. In a nod to this history, the 2019 competition's Official Emblem features a crocus, a flower that blooms every spring in Poland, symbolising the new faces that will emerge at next year's event. Each of the six Host Cities will stage a minimum of seven matches. The opening match and the final will take place in Łódź, while Bielsko-Biała, Bydgoszcz, Gdynia, Lublin and Tychy will each host at least two games featuring one of the top-seeded teams.

Besides hosts Poland, the following countries have already qualified for the tournament:

AFC: Japan, Korea Republic, Qatar and Saudi Arabia

Concacaf: Honduras, Mexico, Panama and the United States

OFC: New Zealand and Tahiti

UEFA: France, Italy, Norway, Portugal and Ukraine

The qualified teams from CAF and CONMEBOL will be confirmed in time for the competition draw, which will be held on 24 February in Gdynia. Fans from all over the world will be able to purchase tickets on FIFA.com right after the draw.

FIFA Deputy Secretary General (Football), Zvonimir Boban

"The FIFA U-20 World Cup Chile 1987 was an incredible milestone in my career. Not only because we won the tournament with Yugoslavia but because of the overall experience, including the final in front of an amazing crowd in Santiago.

It's something very special to hold the FIFA U-20 World Cup in a football-loving country like Poland, which has given so much to the game in recent decades. Fans in all six Host Cities can really look forward to watching world-class talents at modern football arenas, in what promises to be a fantastic FIFA U-20 World Cup.

The U-20 World Cup is FIFA's second-oldest competition and one that has a long-lasting influence on players' careers.

Holding this tournament in Poland in the year of the Polish

FA's centenary and with the active involvement of its president Zbigniew Boniek, a true football legend and my first coach in Italy, makes it all the more special to me."

Polish Football Association President, Zbigniew Boniek:

"It is going to be a wonderful and very prestigious tournament. We could not have come up with a better way to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the Polish Football Association than hosting the FIFA U-20 World Cup 2019. After all, it is one of the biggest football events in the world. Previous editions of the tournament paved the way for many outstanding players. It was during those tournaments that the world became aware of such names as Messi, Maradona, [Andrés] Iniesta, [Antoine] Griezmann, [Mohamed] Salah and [Gerard] Piqué, to name but a few. The 2019 competition is sure to be no different and Poland is proud to welcome the best young players, the world-class stars of the future.

To be honest, I envy our young Polish players this opportunity to participate in a World Cup on home turf. I wish I were one of them. It is going to be a great experience in their fledgling careers.

By allowing us to hold such a prestigious tournament, FIFA has placed considerable trust in us. We are a reliable and proven partner for the entire football community. I am certain that our remarkable Host Cities – Bielsko-Biała, Bydgoszcz, Gdynia, Lublin, Łódź and Tychy – will rise to the occasion and that we will jointly organise a tournament of which we will all be proud."

Polish U-20 national team captain, Tymoteusz Puchacz:

"Competing in the FIFA U-20 World Cup 2019 in our own country will be hard to top. The fact that our families and friends will be in the stands means we will have even more support, as well as extra motivation to perform well. It is going to be a great tournament full of gripping matches.

We are aware that previous editions of the tournament have been a stepping stone for many of the players involved. Numerous players who will participate in next year's competition will soon be shining for some of the world's best clubs; in fact, some of them, such as Roma's Nicolò Zaniolo, have already made their mark at the highest level. Our national team boasts many talented players and I really hope that the U-20 World Cup 2019 will be a huge success for us. I am very much looking forward to May and to our first game."
